

Critiques:

- Make text headers easier to read for viewer.
  - Made text size bigger and played around with colors but all agreed original colors were best suited.
- Add header / footer to break apart divs and make it look more professional.
  - Added matching header and footer with background wallpaper. Only did the image header on larger resolution, thought it looked better. Footer on all resolutions with copyright tag.
- Color and hover hamburger divs
  - Matched color of divs to color scheme and added a hover to signal to viewer that it is clickable.

From Ryan:

- On your product page (after you click on a product) make sure the text is contained within the div on small resolutions
  - Made text size smaller on smaller resolutions.
- I would also make the website branding image at the top of the page a link to the home screen since it's always there.
  - Added javascript to do this and added a hover around image to signal to viewer that it is a link.
- I would also make the pink container that holds everything (right on top of the background) take up the whole width of the screen at smaller resolutions since every little bit of space matters
  - Increased width to 95% instead of 80%.

I also played with margins and padding to find the best-looking version. Implemented consistently throughout pages.
